

Prayer for Jealousy or Fear in Relationships.

The mental cause of this could be fear of abandonment, -the belief in separation of God and myself, a belief in not enough love, and Goodness being taken away.

Spiritual Truth is; God/Love/Goodness/ is ever-present and omnipotent, there is more than enough love, and since It is omnipresent, and omnipotent, It can not be taken away.

Affirmative Prayer:

I recognize that there is a Divine Presence, the source of all that is seen and unseen. That God is Omnipotent, omnipresent, secure, and ever-giving without limitation, of all that is Good.

Knowing this, I now proclaim that it is in my experience that the Presence is with me everywhere I go, that there is no external condition or power that can take the Presence of God and the Omnipotence of Good away from me.

I know and experience that there is nothing limiting or withholding my Good from me now. There is no separation; no-thing between me and my Good, there is only God. And so I know that only love, wholeness, harmony, security, peace, happy having-ness, and all Divine qualities exist in my life, and are made manifest in my life now; in my experience of a secure, safe, generous, trustworthy, Integrous, and fulfilling relationship, -in my knowing that I am loved, I am loved enough, I am safe, and can trust to be loving.

I am Grateful for this knowing and this demonstration of Good in my inner experience and in my outward Life now. I am blessed, I am filled with Grace, and giving thanks.

I release this prayer into the Law of Mind, knowing that it is already done.

And so it is!

Amen